OVERFUELED INDUSTRY

- Knowing the key audience and using word play to connect to consumers: pop culture references → Gen Z
- Paying attention to ONE product: denim. Not chasing a trend, knowing what already works in a faced paced industry of fashion.
- “Less is more” in trends but also literally using less material and paying attention to how products are being made.

OVERFUELED WARDROBES

- Mood Board

- Provocative & cheeky captions to make a bigger point/commentary on the world.
- Unconventional shooting locations.
- Maintaining the rebellious vibe of Diesel.
- Capitalizing on Connor's reputation of often shooting shirtless.

Closets are overfueled. Too many jeans, too many trends, too much waste. Diesel's solution? Undress your wardrobe. Strip it down and fuel it with denim that lasts longer than the hype.

Fast fashion is a leading global polluter, contributing to about 10% of global carbon emissions, leading to global warming consequences. Diesel and Connor Storrie partner to urge consumers to keep the extra heat for the rivalry, not the planet.

ITS TIME TO CHANGE WHAT FUELS US.

Our planet is overfueled - coal, oil, and gas power nearly 80% of global energy. Humans burn about 100 million barrels of oil every day, resulting in carbon levels at an 800,000-year high.

At Diesel, rebellion isn't just about style. It's about change.

Diesel For Responsible Living, pushes denim forward with recycled fabrics and lower-impact processes.

We're challenging fashion to fuel something better.

ETHICAL CODE OF CONDUCT

Diesel “Overfueled” Campaign: Ethical Code of Conduct

1. Responsible Material Use

Our campaign prioritizes materials that reduce environmental harm. Denim used in production should come from recycled, organic, or responsibly sourced cotton, and manufacturing processes should minimize water, chemical, and energy consumption.

2. Ethical Representation

All individuals featured in the campaign are represented respectfully and authentically. The project avoids exploitative imagery or messaging and ensures that participants are treated fairly and credited appropriately for their work. Models and creative staff must be over 18 years old.

3. Respect for People and Creative Labor

All collaborators—including models, photographers, stylists, designers, and production teams—are treated with professionalism and respect. The campaign promotes a safe, inclusive, and collaborative creative environment.

4. Reduced Environmental Impact

The campaign commits to minimizing waste by prioritizing digital production, reusable sets, and low-impact materials for physical installations or photoshoots.

5. Accountability and Continuous Improvement

We recognize sustainability as an evolving process. Diesel commits to continually improving its practices, listening to feedback, and adapting to more responsible methods of production.

OVERFUELED Content Calendar

| Week | One | Two | Three | Four | Five |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| |  |  |  |  |  |
| Platform | Instagram & TikTok | Instagram & TikTok | SNS & Magazine | In-Person & SNS Coverage | Instagram & TikTok |
| Phase | CURIOUSITY | THE PROBLEM | CHARACTER REVEAL | LAUNCH EVENT | COMMUNITY PARTICIPATION |
| Content | Share cryptic teasers to build intrigue without revealing full campaign. Show close up photos/videos of overstuffed closets, clothes in landfills, and oil spilling across denim. | Introduce the campaign concept in a social media challenge called "The Wardrobe Test," where influencers are called to pull their clothes from their closets until piles form. | Campaign imagery drops feating Connor Storrie and Hudson Williams, both shirtless and only wearing Diesel jeans. Published both online and featured in magazines such as Vogue Italia, Dazed, and GQ. | Hold a Launch Event in Milan to promote the campaign. | Use the #WardrobeOverfuel to encourage users to showcase their overfilled closets, then donating undeeded clothes, and then showing themselves in their favorite denim outfits. |
| Call to Action | Use captioning such as "Count how many layers you are wearing" to call consumers to consider themselves part of the campaign and open discussion. | Diesel compiles the video submissions and adds a text overlay saying "Too much fuel" along with an ending clip of the campaign name and date. | Posts are captioned using witty remarks such as "Too much to handle?" and "Time to get undressed." to signal to the campaign's theme as well as add a provocative element to get netizens buzzing online. | Utilize both professional media teams as well as influencers invited to the event to produce heavy social media coverage to bring the campaign to the masses. | Users will post to the hashtag within the promotion period then Diesel will pick winners with the most innovative denim outfits to win vintage Diesel denim. |

Launch Event

- Location: Tunnel Club Milano
  - Repurposed warehouse into an underground nightclub, fitting Diesel's vibe of both being in the Italian fashion capital & the atmosphere of a club fits both the provocative and overstimulating concept of "Overfueling"
- Concept: Strip Away Your Desires
  - The night transitions from excess to essentials.
  - Models begin the night apart of the party, wearing oversized and extravagant outfits.
  - The heroes of the campaign, Connor & Hudson are revealed at the front of the club also in oversized outfits, but then begin to take off the excess layers to reveal stylish & sleek Diesel Denim outfits.
  - They will lead everyone to the next room which will have a runway through a much more toned down room, beginning a fashion show in which models will remove their excess layers as they walk down, revealing their own Diesel denim outfits, as well as creating a large pile of excess clothing to create an artistic visual of how much excess we feed into our daily lives.
- Guest Interaction
  - Denim Repair Bar: Guests are invited to watch Diesel tailors upcycle vintage denim in real time, making for great SNS content as well as a take-home gift for guests to promote.
- Dress Code: Overfueled
  - Guests are encouraged to wear excessive layers to the red carpet portion of the event. Afterward, they will go to the Denim Repair Bar to receive their new outfit of Diesel Denim. The excess layers left behind are donated to charity, reinforcing the sustainability message.
